IN SESSION

The fact that the general assembly is in session again causes scant interest in the state. The assembly has been in session so often lately that it gets attention only when it adjourns.

There is a way the members of the assembly could get favorable notice for the latest of their special sessions. They could clear up a mystery which has puzzled many earnest Ohioans.

Is it possible for the state government to operate on less money than was indicated in the appropriation bill for 1936 passed by the house and senate? Or would any further economy mean collapse?

According to criticism of Gov. Davey's vetoes of certain parts of certain appropriations, there is no possible way for Ohio to save a cent in the departments which were affected. It is reasonable to suppose that other departments are in the same condition.

It is an interesting situation. If Ohio cannot reduce its expenditures, its condition would seem to be pretty serious. A government with no more elasticity in it than that would seem to be in danger of breaking under strain. The strange thing is, though, that the state government always can stretch. It simply doesn't have the power to contract. Representatives and senators with inquiring minds should explain what's wrong.

POSSIBILITY OF PEACE

If two prizefighters, each too weary to put his opponent away, were to be approached with a proposition for splitting the purse without further effort, they might listen to reason. Premier Mussolini and Emperor Haile Selassie may be found listening to a similar kind of reason in the next few days or weeks.

Obviously, Premier Mussolini has not been able to handle the Ethiopian campaign as easily as he hoped to handle it. Watchers have made much of the difficulty, but perhaps they have been ignoring his opponent. Ethiopia's emperor, also, has been having his sorrows. Premier Mussolini may not be able to conquer him, but neither can he conquer the premier.

There is, therefore, a possibility of peace. Rumor says the possibilities are being investigated thoroughly by arbiters. For the simple reason that no one can doubt Premier Mussolini's desire to quit bankrupting Italy or Emperor Haile Selassie's wish to be assured of his throne, the rumor deserves a serious hearing. There may be peace in Ethiopia sooner than expected.

NOT THROUGH TRYING

Sometime in May thousands of persons in the eastern part of the United States will look skyward at Germany's new zeppelin, successor to the famous Graf Zeppelin. The ship will be making the first flight inaugurating transatlantic service.

Few persons doubt that the Germans will be able to do what they say they are going to do with their new airship. Dr. Hugo Eckener's remarkable success has not been condemned wholly by its failure in France, Great Britain and the United States.

The Germans said they would establish scheduled service between their country and South America, and they did. They are guardians of a tradition of dependability. Even Americans, who have every reason to be skeptical of airships, have implicit confidence in the same type of ship when built and operated by Germans.

Why, they ask, can't Americans do the same thing? The question has many answers, most of them technical. It also has a reply which is conclusive and short. Americans can and will build good airships and operate them. It hasn't been popular to make that reply, but with the revival of interest caused by Germany's new ship it is bound to be made again. Rep. Dow Harter of Akron, potential home of the airship industry, already has prepared a bill calling for construction of a training ship, a metal hull ship and experimentation with other types of dirigibles. The United States apparently isn't through trying yet.

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Feb. 25—The names that flare in lights across theatre facades are not always the most highly paid entertainers in New York. They are often topped by the suavely polished singers and such, moving in table-to-table intimacy in cocktail bars and night clubs.

Especially is there a demand for the exploiters of sophisticated and topical lyrics that mirror the world events. A double entendre line that may be caroled with a wink is worth a lot. The king-pin of such sophistries is Dwight Fiske.

In full evening dress splendor, he draws a four-figured salary for talking songs that achieve polite ribaldry without vulgarity. Clark and Delys, also gloriously skirted, essay the same silken-voiced, razor-edged thrills at the headline escapades.

Too, there are Endor and Farrell, a bit rowdier, but cleaving to the whispered innuendo. Such singers in the muted meter as Eve Symington, Jean Sargent and Frances Maddux receive the pay of actress stars.

Also the mimics Sheila Barrett and Eddie Carr who portray pianissimo.

Indeed Jimmy Durante is about the only apostle of confusion and crash left that might be a night club draw. Silence is the reigning motif. Jazz orchestras have been kicked out for exponents of the soft and rhythmic music. It is the night club's way of showing the world it has become refined. A well planned gesture that detoured it from oblivion, incidentally.

When Jed Kiley was running a night club in Paris during the war a gentleman who introduced himself as "Lord Chester" claimed to have lost his coat check. Jokingly Kiley told him he never let anyone in the wrap room on that gag, adding he got a fur coat that way himself. "Lord Chester" said he would wager a bottle of champagne his coat was the oldest and raggedest in the lot. Kiley took him up and had a girl attendant pick out the most disreputable looking coat. It was his, and in ordering the champagne Kiley discovered "Lord Chester" was the then Prince of Wales. It was an old raincoat he had worn at the front.

And it was to Kiley on another of the Prince's incognito rounds of Montmartre that the cafe man observed he had never married and never would. The Prince stuck out his hand and said: "Shake, brother!" Then in sudden blurt: "After all, England had a virgin queen, didn't she?"

The Harriman National Bank building, so long deserted and a flinch to hundreds of depositors in its neighborhood, has been done over in a striking, brass-purified colonial design and is now occupied by an established, long honored bank. The famous corner in its stark desolation was next to the Wendell mansion, the mid-towns greatest eyesore. I always passed it with a shudder. Had it not been for a friend who sat up all night at a time when he was himself in the shadows, urging me to discontinue banking there, I would have lost a lifetime of frugal savings. As did many friends.

One of the slick gags of trailing bad debtors is the phoney inheritance bureau. To the bad debtor's last address they send a questionnaire indicating he is in line for a fortune and must reveal his business and present address. Generally he does pronto and then the collectors swoop down, Tableau!

In the days when the ornithorhynchus—a bird with a large bill—was always on the wing for me there was one in especial who always seemed to pop out of unexpected places to call me to one side about a certain matter. To be more specific, I had on a loose evening run up a chit of $16.80 in a Dayton, O., rat-skeller, and what did I intend to do about it? I was juggling settlements in those days, and he was far down on the list. He accosted me everywhere. But the climax came in an amusement park one night when the ferris wheel in which I was riding with the boss's stenographer stalled on the top swing. On the opposite seat a fellow arose—it was none other than he—and antedating Al Smith some 20 years observed: "Well, here we are!"

THE STARS SAY

For Wednesday, February 26

A day of disruptive and intriguing influences is presaged from the predominant astral potencies. There is sign of sudden change, calling for much forethought and wise weighing of proposals and plans. There is hint of treachery and duplicity, emphasizing the need of precaution in all the affairs both business and private. Sign papers with precaution.

If This Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year calling for much precaution and deliberation in undertaking affairs, especially those that are untried and new. There is danger of disintegrating and intriguing forces menacing business as well as private life. Sign papers carefully. With proper management, unexpected changes may be rendered advantageous. A child born on this day may be disposed to be changeable, restless and probably erratic. He may not be entirely dependable owing to a lure by intrigue and weird things and persons. It will have talent for the unusual and strange inventions.

Notable nativity: Victor Hugo, novelist.

Bitter Fight Forecast for French Elections

Recent attempts to disband Fascist organizations such as the Croix de Feu and the turmoil which followed the assault on Leon Blum, Socialist leader, by Royalist sympathizers presage an unusually bitter and turbulent time during general elections in France. Rightist factions are advocating a stronger centralized government, hoping to end the political turnover which has resulted in 11 cabinets in the past four years, while Leftists are attacking the Bank of France and financial powers as the enemy of prosperity in attempting to obtain their share of the 600 places in the chamber of deputies. Pierre Laval and Pierre Flandin, both former premiers; Leon Blum, Socialist leader, and Albert Sarraut, present premier, are key figures in the chaotic political setup.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland
New York City

Tularemia
MANY ARTICLES have recently appeared in medical journals dealing with the disease known as "tularemia." It was first described in 1907 by workers in the United States health service. At first the infection was believed to be one attacking rabbits, squirrels and other rodents. For this reason it was spoken of as "rabbit fever" and "rodent disease." But today the disease is known to exist in other animals. It may be transmitted to man.

It is caused by a little germ with a big name—the "bacterium tularemense." This is carried from animal to animal and to man by deer flies, ticks, lice and fleas. Handling or skinning an infected animal is dangerous. The germs enter the body through the skin, broken by a scratch, cut or hangnail.

Not Rare Disease
Unfortunately, tularemia is not a rare and unusual disease. It is prevalent in many sections of the country.

Everyone should be familiar with the symptoms of this disease and the dangers of contracting it. This is especially important for those who live in rural sections and indulge in rabbit hunting or the preparation of rabbits for cooking.

The disease usually occurs within ten days after contact with the germs. The victim complains of severe headache, chills, pains throughout the body, vomiting and high fever. In this stage it is often mistaken for a severe cold or gripe infection.

Within a few days after the onset of the first symptoms an ulcer appears at the site of infection. The nearby glands become swollen and painful. They may become abscessed, requiring surgical drainage.

The fever persists for several weeks. After the first week it may become normal but only for a brief time each day. The fever and infected glands tend to weaken the patient. Recovery is slow, but with proper care complete recovery follows.

Rest Important
The most important part of the treatment is complete rest in bed. This should be the rule as long as the fever lasts. The sufferer should not be out of bed until the temperature has remained normal for at least 48 hours.

The rabbit hunter and those engaged in handling wild game should take all necessary precautions. They must avoid contact of the bare hands with the skin and blood of these animals. It is wise to wear gloves to protect against infection.

I am often asked whether it is dangerous to eat rabbit meat. It is safe if the meat is well cooked. No red areas of meat should show after cooking. The germs are possibly destroyed by thorough freezing, certainly by thorough cooking.

Answers to Health Queries
Miss P. N. Q. What can be done to eradicate war?

A.—See your doctor for advice and treatment. It is always unwise to tamper with such blemishes.

Dr. Copeland is glad to answer inquiries from readers who send addressed stamped envelopes with their questions. Address all letters to Dr. Copeland in care of this newspaper at its main office in this city.

ALWAYS KEEP READY MONEY IN A Savings Account

The big advantage of money in a savings account is that it is ready money. When any sudden need arises there is comfort and peace of mind in knowing that you can get cash quickly. You won't have to sell property or securities, perhaps at a loss. You won't have to borrow. You can just come to the bank and get the money needed to meet the emergency. Every man or woman should have a constant ready reserve equal to six month's income.

Therefore, nothing takes the place of a savings account. Have you one?

"HIGH SCHOOL TRAGEDY"

by MAXINE CANTY

CHAPTER XXIV

His confession about the pen telephone call cleared up two of the most puzzling features of the case. His dramatic announcement of his plan in regard to his going home with us. Dad had said that Mother would have told in case some enterprising reporter should get the story from the papers.

Dad went directly to his room to the kitchen, where I tried to help. It was a sorry dinner conversation. Three of us were talking about the necessity of the situation. Mother felt that in the air. Every topic seemed to be connected with the murder, and none of them any response from us. We were in silence.

Dad told me about the dishes while Dad told me about it. I heard her crying, then she went upstairs to her room. Of course, I never saw Mother next morning. She gave the effect of holding her head high. She always fussed a bit, as Dad said, she always through.

It was not until I went to school, that I was not very eager to go. The thought of the new angles of the case alone knew. Now that I had solved the mysterious call, that was no longer a puzzle. I had a better plan which I decided not to divulge to the boy friend.

I believed I had discovered a clue important enough to carry to Inspector O'Brien. Perkins had acted very much as Allen had—jumpy, defensive, abusive, unreasoning. In both cases I had surprised them, disrupting their pose. In Allen's case, he really was guilty of a secret which I had partially found out. The same could be true of Perkins. I had startled him by finding him reading a letter—one written on a sheet of pale green paper. All his reactions were those of a man guilty of something. I felt I had stumbled on the guilty secret whose revelation he so feared. For the sight of that paper solved a question I had been worrying over for weeks.

I knew now where I had seen the spidery handwriting in black ink on a green background. It was the end of a letter lying on Mr. Perkins' desk two months before—just the last line my eye caught as I passed by, a last line which read:

"I must see you!"

My opportunity to visit the Inspector did not come until the following afternoon. I was so excited over this new clue of mine that I ceased to worry over Allen, at least temporarily. I was sure that my memory of the paper was valuable. No doubt my experience with the unpleasant Mr. Perkins had prejudiced me against him. I was going to get a big kick out of telling my news to the Inspector.

I did not go to the office to work. So far as I know, I was never missed. I guess Mr. Perkins had enough on his mind without giving me another thought; Alma must have made up my usual reports. I almost flew to the detective's office. O'Brien saw me at once.

"Another clue Miss Julie?" he greeted me.

"Yes. One I think is important." "Good! Tell us about it."

"Well, you know you told me to keep my eyes open at the school. I did and I think I saw something."

"Yes?"

Then I told him the story. He frowned a lot, especially when I told him of being thrust out the door. When I came to the part about Mrs. Sardon's visiting, he was not so very much impressed. I was frankly disappointed.

He smiled. "Well, Miss Julie, you keep right on doing this good work. Perkins is a strange character. His treatment of you is bad business, but perhaps the school board situation and all the notoriety have shot his nerves to pieces. We'll give him the benefit of the doubt on that."

"Yes, sir."

"As to the letter and the handwriting, I am afraid it is not so important as it would appear at first glance. In the first place, you do not know that the letter he was reading yesterday was from Mrs. Sardon. The color was similar; that is all. In the second place, even if it were true that he receives correspondence from the Italian woman, it would not necessarily be a clue in the murder case."

"But I thought you said everything was important in a case like this?"

"To be sure it is! Don't think for one moment that we are going to ignore this information, Miss Julie. I don't want you to be too elated over it, for frankly, I think the wind blows in another direction than Perkins."

I knew he must mean Bruce Lloyd, who had returned some days before.

"You mean Bruce?" I said sadly.

"I do. So far, we have kept our questioning and checking him fairly quiet. The papers know he is here and that is all. But we are advancing there, Julie."

"And what about Mrs. Carrington?"

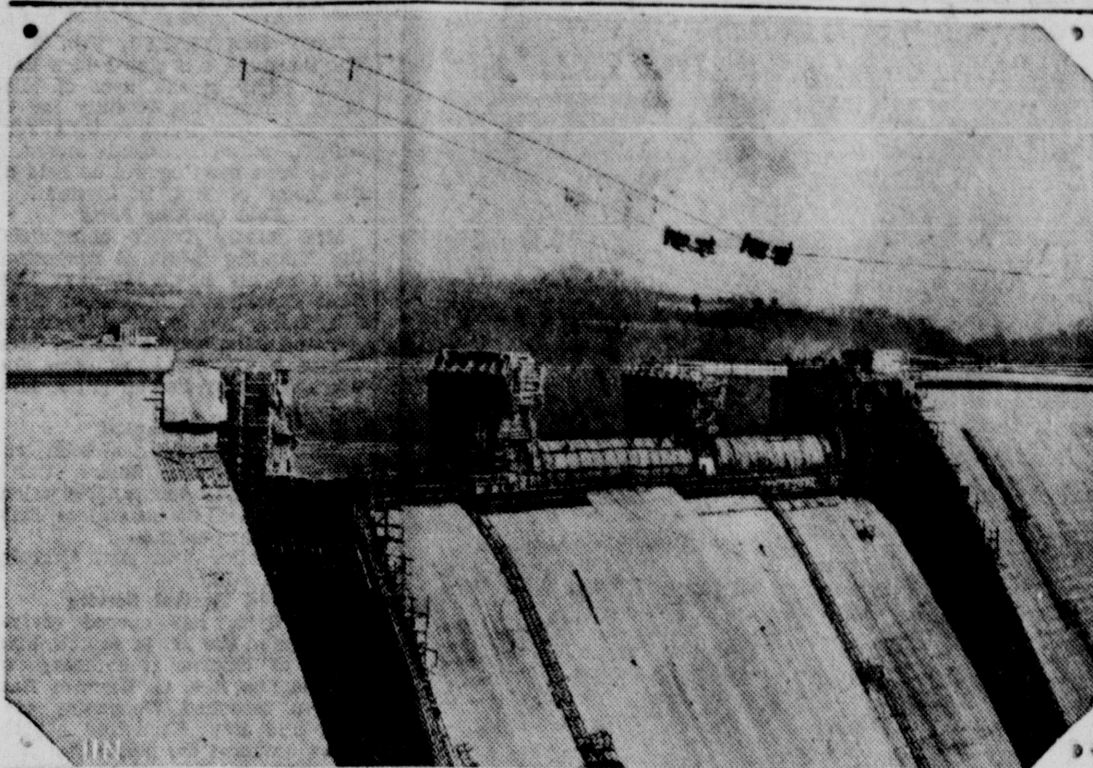

"Nothing there. She is still too ill to question but the doctor promised I could see her tomorrow. Melvin is seeing his old pals again; something may turn up there. We haven't a fool-proof case on anyone yet, little Miss Watson, but I can tell you confidentially that we are concentrating on your blond friend, Bruce Lloyd."

I wanted to ask what he thought about Allen's part. Although I had some reason to feel on pretty good terms with O'Brien by now, I was not quite bold enough to ask that.

"Well," I sighed, "I still think Mr. Perkins is mysterious."

O'Brien smiled at me. "You will be glad to know that we have not been entirely idle there. Your surmise of an acquaintance between him and Mrs. Sardon did not surprise me so much because we have been looking the schoolman up a

UNUSUAL VIEW OF NORRIS DAM, NEARLY FINISHED

View of the spillway of Norris dam with girders being lowered at right. Norris dam, part of the huge TVA power project, now approved by the U. S. supreme court, is nearing completion on the Clinch river, near Knoxville, Tenn. This latest view of the dam shows the beginning of work on the last link necessary to complete the structure. At the left, through which may be seen the rapidly-rising Norris lake, is the spillway where only one more drum gate is required. At the right, the first of six girders that will sustain a 300-foot bridge across the spillway, is being lowered. The girders are 112 feet long and weigh 40 tons each.

He came here from Toledo, Ohio, three years ago, highly recommended. He was in California a year before he came to St. Joseph, doing some very common and unexciting work in the Department of Education at Berkeley. He has been principal here two years.

"I know," I nodded.

"Now the part that will interest you is this: Mrs. Sardon also came from Toledo about three years ago, coming directly to St. Joseph. It is quite possible that they knew each other, at least that they had a speaking acquaintance in Ohio. Naturally, they might have renewed it here. Perhaps Mr. Perkins even helped her to rent her apartments."

I was excited about this. "Inspector," I chided, "I am sure there is something in that to investigate! It's awfully funny that she didn't see Mr. Perkins come and go when she was so positive about the others!"

"I am inclined to believe her story of going to bed early. She didn't see Hym or Allen either, you know, and they came soon afterward."

I was somewhat dashed, but not entirely.

"I don't see why it's not important."

I was conscious of an almost pouting tone, and I feared at once that I had been too bold. But the Inspector was most serious.

"We each have our pet theories and clues, Julie, and it is up to me to investigate all of them. You are quite right. Mr. Perkins shall be traced more closely and we shall try to find out something more about the mysterious Mrs. Sardon. But each time you walk into the principal's office, don't shudder because you imagine you are walking into the murderer's den!"

He was teasing me, I knew. I laughed with him.

"You see, even if he has a dark friendship for Mrs. Sardon, his calls upon Miss Sinclair still seem to be as casual and innocent as he claims. No motive for his killing her has been established."

"That is true," I agreed solemnly. "If we could be sure all the clues were in our hands."

The Inspector rose. "We are working hard to unearth them all, Julie. It is discouraging at times. I'll send a man over to see what he can get out of the other tenants about Perkins' visits to the teacher. Maybe we can dig up one or two more facts. You're a good little girl."

He patted my shoulder, and I went home happily thinking that he liked me and that I had diverted

Today's Pattern

FROCK WITH JACKET
Pattern 2671

A jacket-dress comes in that category of things "once owned—always owned"—for its serviceability, usefulness and downright comfort are virtues much popularized. Especially flattering to the stout—(whether young or mature) this jacket-topped frock gives the illusion of tapering slimmness, so much to be desired. The soft jabot and high-rising waist panel conceal and minimize surplus pounds. See how smart the contrasting jacket that whisks on or off in a wink, and may even accompany another frock? Choose a spaced print in crepe or sheer, with jacket of plain; or, fashion it of all one fabric, if you like.

Pattern 2671 is available in sizes 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 takes 3 1/2 yards 39 inch fabric and 1 1/2 yards contrasting. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send fifteen (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. Be sure to state size.

Send for our spring pattern book now! See how easily you can have a flattering, individual wardrobe that'll keep you smart all season! Trim house dresses, gay sports clothes, lovely afternoon and party frocks. Clever slenderizing styles. Misses and children's patterns. ## PREVENT DANGERS OF CONSTIPATION*

"Bulk" in ALL-BRAN Is Gentle in Action

Common constipation is largely due to insufficient "bulk" in meals. You fail to get your internal exercise. Millions of people have found that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies soft "bulk" with satisfactory results.

Tests in nutrition laboratories demonstrate that the "bulk" in ALL-BRAN can be used with the utmost confidence. Naturally, those few individuals with diseased or highly sensitive intestines should not take "bulk" in any form—either in leafy vegetables or in bran.

Unlike cathartics, ALL-BRAN is natural in its action—nor does this food lose its effectiveness with continued use. Within the body, it absorbs moisture and cleanses the intestines, promoting normal and healthful elimination.

Two tablespoonsful of this delicious cereal, served with milk or cream, are usually sufficient. Enjoy it also in cooked dishes.

Help your family keep well. Serve ALL-BRAN regularly for regularity. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

First Round Champion Columbians Downed By Old Timers

VETERAN FIVE AVENGES LOSS IN OTHER TILT

Winona Quintet Scores Victory Over Hinton Plumbers

Defeated by the Columbian cagers in the play-off contest for the first round championship of the Class A city league, the Old Timers gained revenge at the Memorial building last night when they trampled the Resneck-coached basketballers beneath a 45 to 23 score.

Behind, 10 to 3, at the close of the first period, the Old Timers hit their stride in the second frame and rang up frequent scores to take the lead, 19 to 16, at half time.

Unable to halt the veterans sudden scoring spree, the Columbians fell hard in the final two periods, scoring but seven points to the Old Timers' 16.

Older Leads Scoring
Les Older, who still declines to wear a uniform during the games, led the Old Timers' scoring with 16 points. "Skipper" Greenstein turned in 10 points to the veterans' total. For the Columbians, "Charley" McCloskey, with eight points, looked the best.

In another Class A contest last night, the Hinton Plumbers were upset by Winona, 32 to 28. Winona held the lead throughout the contest although the Plumbers threatened several times in the closing frame.

Both of these quintets finished in the second division ranks at the close of the first round in the Class A loop.

Ward, Sutter and Clewell were outstanding for Winona while Jackson, Schuster and Pasco shared honors for the Plumbers.

The Salem Pennzips lashed found a place in the victory column again last night when they triumphed over the Steubenville Shamrocks, 34 to 24, in an additional contest to the Class A league games.

HAFLEY ASKS FOR ANOTHER CHANCE
SAN JUAN, P. R., Feb. 25.—Larry S. MacPhail, general manager of the Cincinnati Reds, studied today a suggestion from Chick Hafley, veteran outfielder, that Hafley return from voluntary retirement via the minor league route.

Hafley, in an interview given on his Walnut Creek, Calif., ranch, said he would like to be "loaned" to the San Francisco Seals of the Pacific Coast loop "on a short notice" proposition to report to the National league if things turn out right.

From Avalon, Calif., came word too, that Babe Herman, veteran outfielder, who has not signed his contract, appeared to be holding out more against the three-day sea voyage necessary to reach his tropical outpost, than against suggested size of his paycheck.

Herman told former team-mates with the Chicago Cubs that he probably would sign his contract when the Reds return to Florida early next month.

MacPhail announced plans to return his team here in 1937 for spring training.

HEAVIER LADS IN G. G. EVENT TO MAKE BIDS

Championship Candidates Will Fight Through Two Rounds

CHICAGO, Feb. 25.—The bigger boys in the ninth annual Golden Gloves tournament of champions, welterweights, middleweights, light heavyweights and heavyweights, will open their bids for titles tonight, with a mark of 25 knock-outs, set by the little fellows, at which to shoot.

Championship candidates in the heavier classes will fight through two tournament rounds tonight, with the survivors joining the victors from the smaller divisions in third round tussles tomorrow night. Semi-finalists will return to Chicago March 6 to finish the struggle.

Quickest Knockout
The quickest knockout of last night's program was achieved by Dave Eagan, Detroit light-weight. Eagan needed only time enough to land two punches in the first round to knock out Jack Dempsey of Dubuque, Ia., fighting as a member of the Cedar Rapids, Ia., team.

Johnny Brown of Chicago, defending the 118-pound crown, scored a spectacular victory over Patsy Urso, of Detroit, 1935 112-pound champion, who grew into the bantamweight class during the year. Brown ended a rousing slugging match by a technical knockout in the third round.

Cleveland produced the freak of the tournament in Jackie Wilson, a slatlike Negro, stands six feet tall but weighs only 110 pounds and ranks as a favorite in the flyweight division.

Five dollars will be paid in cash to the person selecting the most winners of the 16 games that will be played in the Youngstown sectional Class A High school basketball tournament beginning at Youngstown East High gymnasium March 3 and ending the night of March 7.

Sponsored by The Salem News, the contest is open to anyone and its rules are simple. Each game to be played during the tourney is given a number. All you have to do is fill in the blank space under each game with the name of the team you think will win and mail or deliver your selections to the Sports Editor of The Salem News.

The contest will close at midnight on March 2. All entries must be in the mail or at The News office by that time. The winner will be announced on the sport page of The News, March 9.

EVANS TO BOSS RED SOX FARMS; MORE PLANNED

Former Indians' Generals Manager Named to New Post by Tom Yawkey

BOSTON, Feb. 25.—The faucet that has poured almost four millions of dollars into the American league probably closed suddenly today following the appointment of Billy Evans, former Cleveland Indians general manager, as head of the Boston Red Sox farm system.

Evans, who has discovered on sand lots players as capable as those owner Tom Yawkey has spent hundreds of thousands for, will expand the Red Sox' farming properties immediately. They now include only ownership of the Rocky Mount club in the Class B Piedmont league and working agreements with the Syracuse International league club and Little Rock and Memphis in the Southern association.

Evans' appointment was announced by Yawkey's general manager, canny Eddie Collins.

Not Extensive System
"We do not plan any extensive farm system, such as the St. Louis Cardinals operate," said Collins. "We want contracts and agreements with minor league teams. That is why Evans was sought for the position."

"I talked to him about it last Friday for the first time. He was in Cleveland, we, Tom Yawkey and I, met him in New York and came to an agreement there yesterday."

"We have felt that we could not continue paying prohibitive prices for new players and we decided that we would have to rely upon some reasonable methods of obtaining our replacements. We believe Evans is the man we want."

Evans, a sports writer before he started his baseball career as an umpire in the Ohio-Penn league 30 years ago, also will head the Red Sox scouting system. He is considered a master in that phase of the game for, when he headed the Cleveland club, he plucked such stars as Joe Vossnik, Earl Averill, Wes Ferrell and Dick Porter off the sand lots.

Indians Will Hold Short Drill Today

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 25.—Manager Steve O'Neill planned another short workout as the second session for the early squad of Cleveland Indians today.

George Blacholder, right handed pitcher purchaser from the Athletics, was the only man whose absence would not be accounted for. O'Neill expected him to show up today.

Head Play Through

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 25.—Head Play's racing days are over. The "big red" as he came to be known at Santa Anita, is going into stud. He will be loaded on a train today with his stablemate, Sun Portland, winner of the Illinois derby in 1935, bound for the S. B. Mason farm at Duntreath, Lexington, Ky.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—A tentative slate of Ohio delegates at-large to the Democratic national convention was understood today to have been agreed upon.

The majority of them were those whose names could not be listed in the camp of Gov. Martin L. Davey. This was in line with reports that the governor and Francis Poulson, chairman of the state executive committee, were not being consulted in the main in the selections.

May Choose West

Charles West, undersecretary of the interior who has played a chief role in picking the Ohio delegation, was expected to be a delegate-at-large.

The other seven were expected to be chosen from Senators Robert J. Bulkley and A. V. Donahey, who have been consulted in the choices; Rep. Stephen M. Young of Cleveland, former Governor James M. Cox of Dayton, Earl H. Hanefeld, chairman of the state central committee and director of agriculture, former Governor George White, William A. Julian of Cincinnati, treasurer of the United States and still listed as Democratic national committeeman from Ohio although he has offered his resignation and Mrs. Helen R. Truax of Bucyrus, widow of Rep. Charles V. Truax.

There was some discussion that one of the places would be given to Mrs. M. Makley of Dayton, in which event Mrs. Truax likely would become an alternate delegate-at-large.

The 44 district delegates are being chosen in accordance with the views of various county leaders and the house representatives from the state. The senators are being consulted concerning congressional districts now held by Republicans.

Akron Sheriff Asks Aid Of Militia In Strike At Goodyear

AKRON, Feb. 25.—Sheriff James T. Fowler announced today he is seeking the aid of national guard troops to control the strike situation at the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. plants, where a strike is in progress. As he prepared to enforce a court injunction against mass picketing, Fowler said he telephoned Col. L. S. Brown in the adjutant general's office in Columbus to call for militia.

He was referred to Gov. Martin L. Davey, he said.

Pickets blocked a street intersection leading to one of the main plants of Goodyear today and another group prevented several freight cars from entering the plant on a belt-line railroad track.

AKRON, Feb. 25.—Unionists directing the eight-day blockade of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber plants reported today they had "power to broaden the strike within the industry," but the company remained firm in its decision not to meet with "men not at work."

While more than 14,000 employees continued idle, pickets were on duty in groups of 10 at each of 44 plant entrances, in compliance with a court order restricting picketing. The company said it would resume operations only when convinced of the effectiveness of the injunction.

peace and comfort of the residents by prohibiting and suppressing all houses, shops and stores, known as places of habitual resort, for tipping and intemperance."

The measure further stated that "no person should sell or give away any intoxicating liquor, ale, porter or strong beer." The fine, in case of conviction, was set at $15 and costs.

Today, in an age when drinks are available for sale through repeal of the 18th amendment, a fine for a similar offense would be greater in most instances.

The record book also contains minute notations kept by the clerk. One page records a $2 payment to a man for digging a grave for a pauper.

Buxom Mae West, In Row With Lubitsch, Wins Moral Victory

(By Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 25.—Mae West's managerial forces claimed a decision for the buxom star today in her "push around" battle with Ernest Lubitsch, producer.

Today Miss West was returning to Hollywood from what was called a "strategic retreat" during the latest bout of star vs. producer. In her absence, her old friend, William LeBaron, replaced Lubitsch as production-chief at Paramount, her home studio.

On the blonde star's west bound train last night, Jim Tomony, Miss West's business manager, gave his version of the affair.

"Lubitsch, though in his Hitler way, he could push Miss West around," Timony asserted. "He wouldn't even give her the cameraman she wanted."

"Well, in the end, she pushed him around."

"After all, she was in the show business long before Lubitsch ever thought of being."

Lubitsch will become a unit producer under Paramount's new arrangement. Informed sources said Lubitsch and Miss West "never got along."

Signers of Pattison's announcement included Clarence J. Murphy of Butler county, John Wood of Brown county, Matt Denver of Cilmington, Charles B. Dechant of Lebanon; Robert B. Mullen of Highland county and Eli Seidel, of Batavia.

It always works

Just do what hospitals do, and the doctors insist on. Use a good liquid laxative, and aid Nature to restore clocklike regularity without strain or ill effect.

A liquid can always be taken in gradually reduced doses. Reduced dosage is the real secret of relief from constipation.

Ask a doctor about this. Ask your druggist how very popular Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has become. It gives the right kind of help, and right amount of help. Taking a little less each time, gives the bowels a chance to act of their own accord, until they are moving regularly and thoroughly without any help at all.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin contains senna and cascara—both natural laxatives that form no habit. The action is gentle, but sure. It will relieve any sluggishness or bilious condition due to constipation without upset.
